

Exploring the Jesus-centred life in a polarized world

October 7 to November 18, 2020

COURSE OVERVIEW

This online learning collective is a challenging 6-week, cohort-based, relational learning and formation adventure with peer ministry leaders.

Together we'll go beyond learning to dive deep into the utterly unique and life-giving vision of Jesus of Nazareth. We'll explore the theology and implications of seeing Jesus as the model human being—the One we are called to follow in our polarized world.

Together we'll explore:

- ✓ The implications of Jesus' core message and vocation for discipleship, mission, and non-violent peacemaking
- ✓ How to hold a theologically centred-set/third-way posture in a polarized world
- ✓ How an overly Eurocentric Gospel can stifle ethnic and racial diversity in churches
- ✓ How a Jesus-centred faith compels us towards justice and racial reconciliation

IS THIS FOR YOU?

Online Learning Collectives are designed for highly motivated leaders seeking a brave, safe space to be deeply formed in Jesus-centred living and mission.

For Pastors, ministry leads, leaders of Christian org's; leaders curious about an 'Anabapt-ish' approach to Jesus and discipleship; from North America & around the world
